1991 President's Report*

About the cover

The historic Mediterranean Revival building located on Gardenia Street in downtown West Palm Beach served as the first home of Palm Beach Community College from 1933 to 1948. PBCC is credited with being the first public community college in the state of Florida and the model for the state's present community college system.

The original building, designed by William Manly King and built in 1928, was named to the National Register of Historic Places of the United States Department of the Interior National Park Service on June 3 of this year. The National Register designation lauded the structure for both its use as a pioneering educational facility and its architectural significance.

• Achievements •

The adoption of the revised Palm Beach Community College Strategic Plan by the Office of Planning and Information Systems, coupled with the installation of an innovative optical filing system in the Registrar's Office, set a progressive tone for the College's future. These accomplishments served as keynotes for the continued inspiration and guidance by the College's President Edward M. Eissey. In recognition of his 18 years of leadership and devotion to PBCC, the College's Palm Beach Gardens Campus was renamed in his honor.

From district achievements to student honors, the College garnered accolades when PBCC's chapter of the Phi Theta Kappa Honors Fraternity received national recognition, along with the organization's adviser. Additionally, PBCC's chapter of Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) brought home several national awards.

While the College was making its mark academically, it was also burning up the athletic venues as well. The PBCC Women's Basketball Team repeated as Florida Community College Activities Association (FCCAA) Region VIII champions and advanced to the final four (placing third) at the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) Tournament, while the Men's Tennis Team won their fifth consecutive FCCAA/Region VIII title before traveling to the NJCAA Tournament where they placed fifth. In other sports, the Women's Tennis Team placed sixth at the NJCAA Tournament, and the Softball Team finished third in the National Women's Slow Pitch Championships.

Palm Beach Community College President Edward M. Eissey was honored for his 18 years of dedicated service to the College when over 500 colleagues, friends and family members gathered to help him celebrate the official renaming of PBCC's Palm Beach Gardens Campus in his honor.

• 1991 Board of Trustees •

Comprised of five outstanding county leaders, the Palm Beach Community College Board of Trustees is dedicated to ensuring the continued growth and excellence of the College's educational offerings for both the students and residents of Palm Beach County.

Bettye J. King, Esquire, serves as board chairman and is a prominent personal injury attorney with the firm of Lytal and Reiter. Appointed as a trustee in 1988 and named chairman in 1989, King is active in various community affairs.

Homer J. Hand was appointed to the board of trustees in 1989 and assumed his present position as vice chairman that same year. A leader in area business and community organizations, Hand has been a staunch supporter of the College for over 30 years.

Bernard Kimmel, M.D., has served on the board since 1987 and has built a solid reputation in the community for his support of education and PBCC. A former state legislator and Palm Beach County School Board member, Kimmel is presently on staff at John F. Kennedy Medical Center.

Rear Admiral Thomas E. Morris, U.S. Navy (Retired), was appointed to the board in 1989. He held seven land and sea commands during his illustrious military career. A highly visible community leader, Morris is a three-time recipient of the Legion of Merit Award and has twice received the Navy's Distinguished Public Service Award.

• The Leaders and Their Legacy •

The College proudly salutes the leaders whose dedication and commitment to education made Palm Beach Community College possible: Joe Youngblood, Howell L. Watkins, Britton Sayles, John I. Leonard, Harold C. Manor and Edward M. Eissey.

It was the perseverance and devotion of these visionaries that led Palm Beach Community College to the forefront of Florida's educational fabric. The School Board of Palm Beach County helped preserve the eloquent history of PBCC when they returned the College's original building on Gardenia Street to the College in 1990. By a unanimous vote, the board sold the site of Florida's first public community college back to PBCC for the token payment of $10.

The building will be preserved as the College's museum and site for PBCC's historic archives. To fund the operation of the museum, the College has applied for historic preservation grants and solicited private donations.

Joe Youngblood, superintendent of schools for Palm Beach County, was responsible for promoting the junior college concept through civic clubs and related organizations and is credited with being a co-founder of PBCC along with Howell L. Watkins.

Howell L. Watkins was both principal of Palm Beach High School and the first dean of Palm Beach Community College and is credited as being a co-founder of PBCC along with Joe Youngblood.

Britton Sayles was president of Roosevelt Junior College prior to its merging with PBCC in 1965. Under the leadership of Sayles, RJC was responsible for ensuring higher education opportunities for the black community.

John I. Leonard served as the first president of Palm Beach Community College from 1933-1957 and was the catalyst for the College's accreditation from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools in 1942.

Harold C. Manor was the College's second president and the man credited with establishing PBCC's four locations. During Manor's tenure, the College experienced outstanding growth in enrollment, staff, course offerings and services to the community.

Distinguished Chair of Arts and Letters
• Watson B. Duncan III •

February 16, 1915 - February 21, 1991

He was called the Pied Piper of English Literature, a starmaker and the consummate educator. He was flamboyant, animated, articulate. He was, and always will be, Watson B. Duncan III, and he taught at Palm Beach Community College for 43 years.

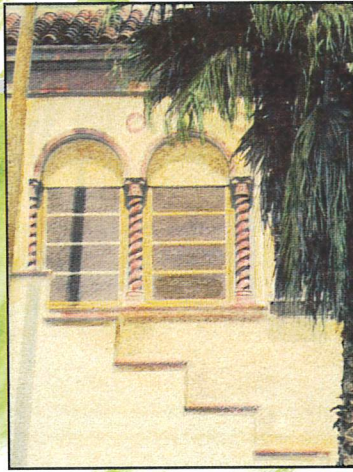

After such an illustrious career at Palm Beach Community College, many expected that Duncan would retire and pursue other activities, but Duncan never found the time. In his words..."I'm doing what I'm supposed to be doing...making a contribution to the education of our young people."

Watson B. Duncan III...He will be remembered for his insight, his wisdom and his dedication and devotion to education. But most certainly, he will always be remembered with love by those who knew him.

*...Good night, sweet prince
And flights of angels sing thee to thy rest ...*

• A Cooperative Effort...A Business Partnership •

Three Sunshine State Skills Grants, totaling $261,685, were awarded through the PBCC Edward M. Eissey Campus to fund education-based training partnerships with Northern Telecom, Pratt & Whitney and United Technologies as part of a program offered by the community college system to provide training for new, expanding or diversifying businesses.

The PBCC/Northern Telecom grant funded the College's Instructional Design Center (IDC) for the development of advanced training materials for operator certification in the manufacturing of printed circuit boards (right, bottom inset photograph). The Pratt & Whitney grant was used to create interactive video instruction modules for teaching Engineering Drawing Interpretation. The third grant, a training partnership between the PBCC-IDC and United Technologies Optical Systems, will be used to develop training for advanced drafting, design, layout and management of drafting procedures in the manufacturing process.

Another grant-funded project included the establishment of the Business Training Center at the South Campus in Boca Raton. The center, which resulted from a grant in the form of a System 36 minicomputer from the IBM Corporation, offers training on the System 36 for local business people and college students.

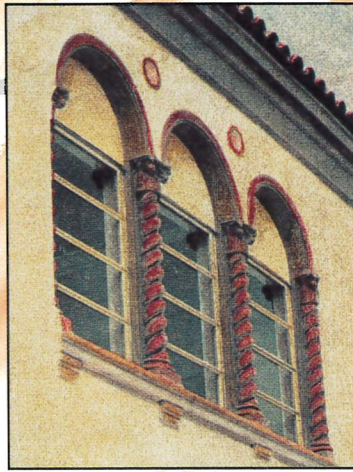

PBCC's curriculum was further augmented when two new programs were implemented this year. Respiratory Care, offered at the Eissey Campus, is a three-year associate in science degree program which provides opportunities for currently-employed respiratory care technicians to upgrade their skills for certification. Ornamental Horticulture was the second associate in science degree program to be added, with classes offered at the Eissey, Central and South Campuses.

• A Commitment to Unity •

A Hispanic Advisory Commission (right, top inset photograph) was established at Palm Beach Community College to address the higher education needs of the Hispanic community. The commission selected Elena Contreras, assistant vice president and branch manager of Fidelity Federal Savings Bank of Florida, as chairman. Howard Matos, vocational specialist and computer instructor for the Palm Beach County School Board, was named co-chairman. To further reinforce PBCC's commitment to minority students, PBCC's Central Campus established an ESOL (English for Speakers of Other Languages) program to offer instruction and practice in speaking, listening, reading and writing in English.

The College's black student groups celebrated Black History Month with various activities that included an inspirational concert of gospel music, a civil rights display (right, full-page photograph) and a talent show at PBCC's South Campus.

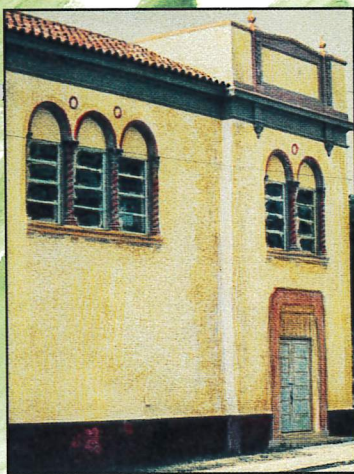

• PBCC Thinks Green •

PBCC's commitment to environmental issues continued as the College embraced the Florida panther as its mascot. During a ceremony held at the Dreher Park Zoo, Tayke, the zoo's Florida panther, was officially named PBCC's representative mascot. The event, which was part of Environmental Awareness Day at the zoo, included the unveiling of a PBCC sign in front of the Florida panther enclosure (right, bottom inset photograph). PBCC's Student Government Association (SGA) co-hosted Environmental Awareness Day to draw public attention to the need to protect the endangered species. SGA President Dennis DeMarois and SGA member Sean Brogna coordinated the Florida Panther Awareness campaign in conjunction with Environmental Awareness Day (right, top inset photograph).

While the Dreher Park Zoo and Tayke took center stage in January, it was the Eissey Campus' second annual "WRITES" of Spring: A Celebration of Ecological Consciousness at the Spring Equinox event (right, full-page photograph) which took the spotlight in March. Once again, the event brought together the arts and an awareness of ecological concerns through song, dance, visual arts, lectures, poetry, prose and fashion shows which featured clothing made from natural fibers. Speakers included Nat P. Reed, former assistant secretary of the interior and president of "1,000 Friends of Florida," an environmental monitoring group.

• The Mark of Excellence •

PBCC's students were the recipients of several major national awards. Fashion design major Kristen Lamp (right, full-page photograph) traveled to New York City in early November where she represented Palm Beach Community College in the 1990 Air France Student Designers Competition. Competing against fashion design students from 30 design schools nationwide, Lamp was one of only 10 students who went on to represent the United States in international competition held in Paris. Johanna Prinz, PBCC fashion instructor and program coordinator, was instrumental in helping Lamp produce her winning garment.

While Lamp was lighting up the runways in Paris, members of Delta Omicron, PBCC's Central Campus chapter of the Phi Theta Kappa Honors Fraternity, were walking away with several awards at PTK's 73rd annual national convention. In addition, Delta Omicron was named one of the 25 nationally-distinguished PTK chapters in America.

PTK President Julie Teneralli (right, top inset photograph) received a Distinguished Chapter President award, and PBCC student Jerry Willett was named a Bierkoe Distinguished Member. Chapter Adviser Allen Hamlin was also honored when he was named one of three nationally-distinguished PTK advisers.

Members of Delta Epsilon Chi, PBCC's chapter of the Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA), attended the 30th Annual Career Development National Conference in Denver, Colorado where PBCC student Babette Haggerty (right, bottom inset photograph) earned first place honors in the Fashion Merchandising Promotional Plan category, while Marlo Carbone placed in the top 10 in Full Service Restaurant Marketing. Additionally, PBCC student James Wiese took home top honors in the competency-based written exam for Finance and Credit. Susan Thompson serves as chapter adviser.

• Florida Panther Athletes ...Hear Them Roar! •

Palm Beach Community College had a banner year in athletic competition when four of PBCC's athletic teams participated in national competition.

The Women's Basketball Team, coached by Sally Smith, took PBCC's basketball wonder show on the road and, by season's end, placed third in the National Junior College Athletic Association's Womens Basketball Tournament. The Lady Panthers enjoyed an incredible season, earning a second consecutive Florida Community College Activities Association/Region VIII Florida State Championship, a second Southern Conference title with a 10-0 record in conference play, a 30-3 season record and a 24-game winning streak. Additionally, Smith was named FCCAA/Region VIII Coach-of-the-Year for the second consecutive season.

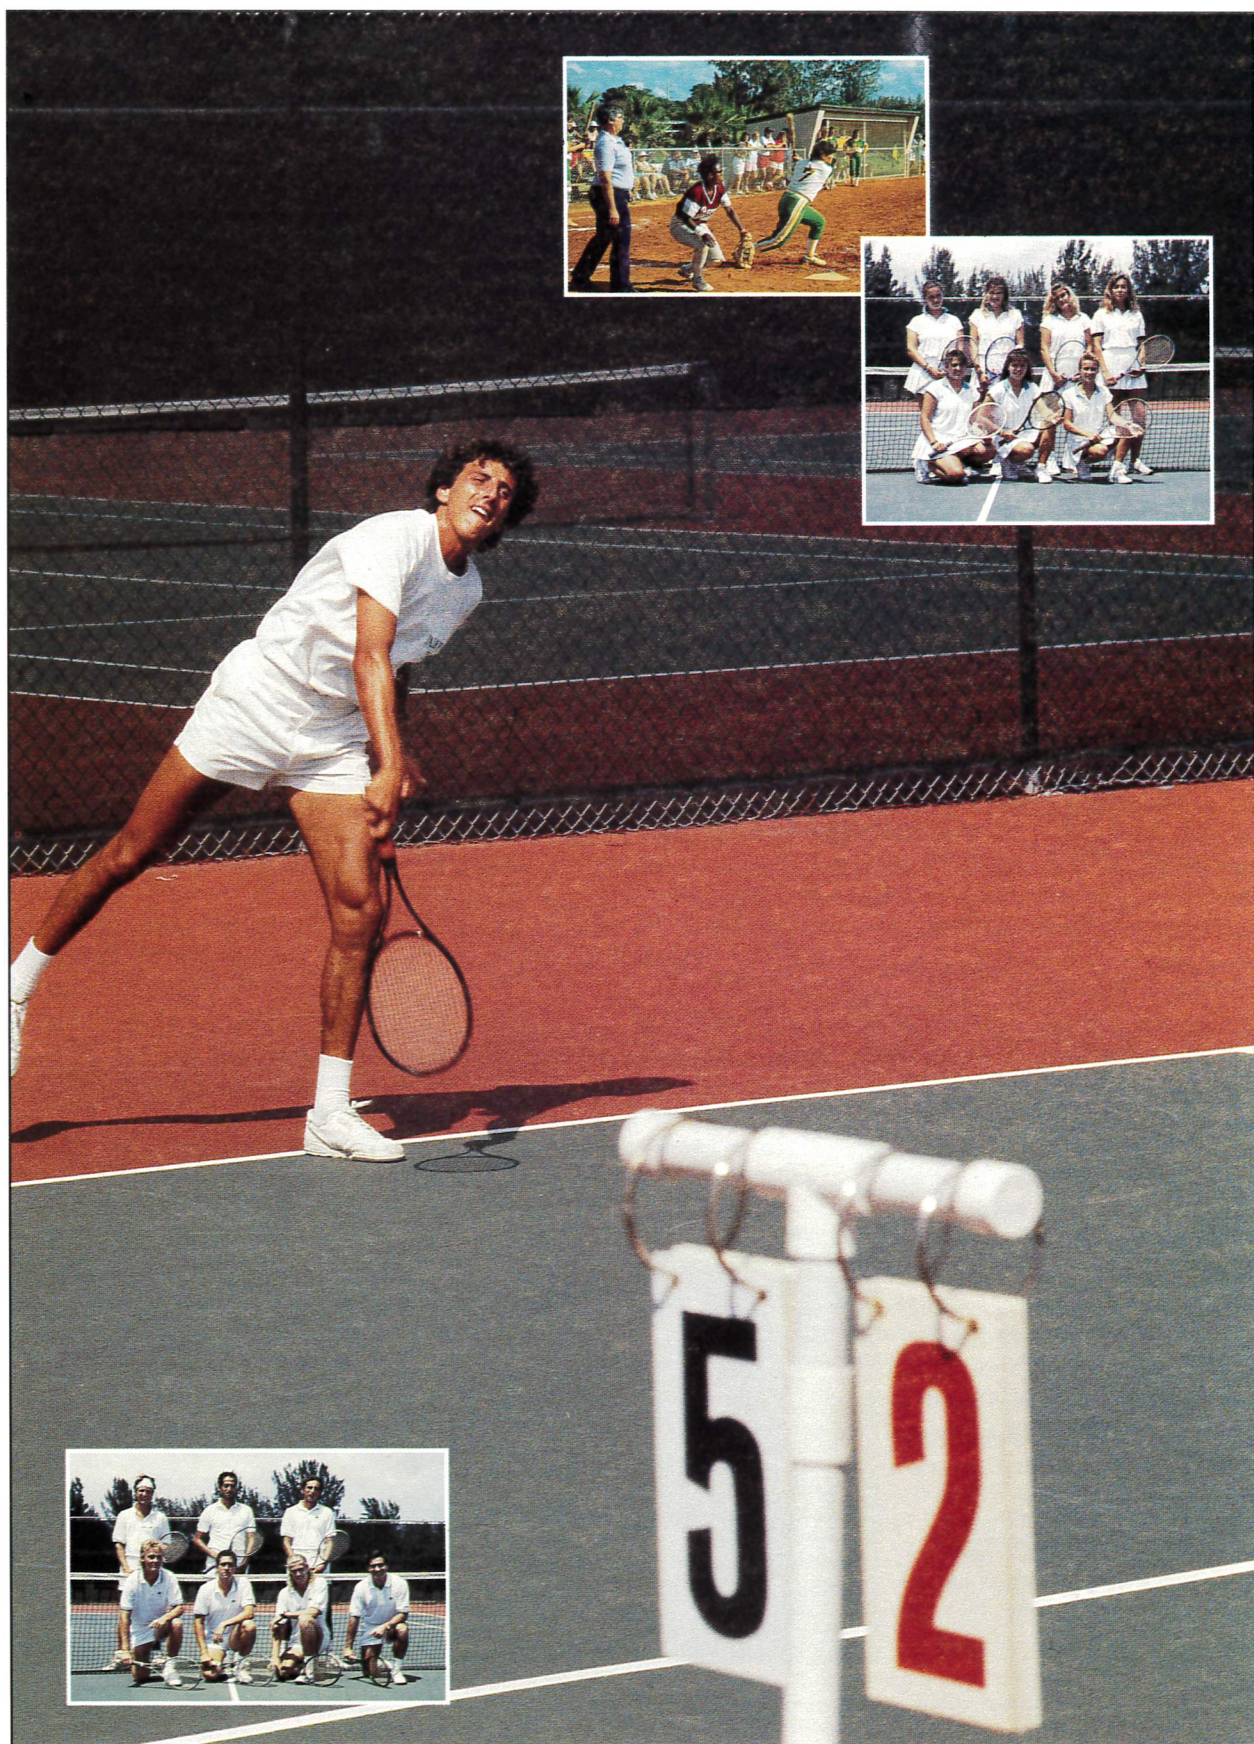

It would seem five was the lucky number for PBCC's Men's Tennis Team and coach Jonathan Klorfein (right, bottom inset photograph). Klorfein coached the men's squad to a fifth consecutive FCCAA/Region VIII Florida State Championship and, in the process, was named FCCAA/Region VIII Coach-of-the-Year for the fifth straight time. Compiling a season record of 19-6, the Panthers ended their season with a fifth place finish at the NJCAA Tournament held in Tyler, Texas.

PBCC's Women's Tennis Team (right, middle inset photograph) also had a successful season. The tennis squad, coached by Virginia Johnson, posted a 16-2 record and placed sixth at the NJCAA Tournament.

The Lady Panthers Softball Team (right, top inset photograph), coached by John Anderson, played their way to a 25-15 record and a third place finish in the National Women's Slow Pitch Championships.

PBCC's Women's Basketball Team won a second consecutive FCCAA/Region VIII title in March.

• Alumni •

The Palm Beach Community College Alumni Association continued its efforts to reach College alumni by hosting various events including a get-to-know-you business card exchange and a reception before the annual Evening on Broadway showcase.

Under the leadership of PBCC Alumni Association President Chuck Elder and PBCC Foundation President Max Davis, a documentary honoring the late Watson B. Duncan III is being developed along with a display of the College's historic photographs. Vice President Emeritus of Student Services Paul J. Glynn coordinated the cataloging and hanging of the photos in PBCC's Central Campus Harold C. Manor Library.

Additionally, South Campus alumnus Freddie Farach established the Alfred Farach Scholarship for the Physically Disabled, and Jackie Parachu, a computer science major at the South Campus, was the first recipient.

The Palm Beach Community College Alumni Association Board of Directors includes President Chuck Elder, Vice President Theodore Babbitt, Secretary Stephen Covert and Treasurer Dr. William Harman. Board members are H. Loy Anderson, Clarence Anthony, Geoffrey Burdick, Mark Davis, Edward M. Eisey, Gary Forney, Paul J. Glynn, Frances R.
